COMPARATIVE STATEMENT. The Clerks of Appropriation Committees Show Greater Revenues and Expenses Than the Secretary of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The clerks of the Committees on Appropriations of the Senate and House have prepared a comparative statement of estimates appropriations and expenditures for the maintenance of the Government removal of cases from State courts to for the fiscal years 1890 and 1891, from which it appears that the net in crease of the estimates for 1891 over those for the current year is $20,867,168 and the net increase of the estimates for the next year over the appro declared that all existing tariff taxes priation for this year is $38,092,112. on foreign merchandise should be so The total estimates of regular and permanent annual appropriations for the next fiscal year are $406,843,415, while the total revenues are estimated at government economically administered; the principal and interest of the public debt as revenues over estimated appropriations $450,414,337-an excess of estimated next year of $43,571,022. The net surplus for the present year is placed at $53,532,411 or $9,961,489 more than the estimated surplus for the next fiscal year. This prospective decrease in the surplus is stated too without reference to the possibility of the enactment of a River and Harbor bill, for in the estimates submitted by the Secretary of the Treasury there is a notable omission of the ordinary provision for river and harbor improvements. For the preservation of existing works the sum of $237,000 is asked, while the report of the chief of engineers says that $38. 532,550 can be profitably expended next > year in these improvements. The statement above quoted differs materially from that prepared from the Treasury Department and exhibited in the book of estimates just issued, for the reason that the postal receipts and revenues are differently treated by the treasury and the Appropriation Committees

Killed in His Barn PRATT, Kan., Dec. 5 .- W. W. Smith, a prominent and well-to-do farmer, was killed at an early hour yesterday east of here. He was shelling corn, and was shot three times from behind. His son-in-law, Charles Young, was in the barn at the time. Young says that while he was watering stock he saw a man talking to Smith and then heard shots. He ran to the house to get a gun, and saw no more of the mysterious man. Young's story is not altogether straight. Smith was known to have had no difficulty with any one previously. "Labor" Train in Collision. WILKESBARRE, Pa., Dec. 5 .- Early yesterday morning a number of Jersey Central laborers walked up the track to meet the "labor" train. Suddenly a freight train approached at high speed The men jumped from the northbound track to the southbound, when the "la bor" train, rushing around a sharp curve, plunged into the midst of them. Many were thrown down or against the two trains. Two men were struck by the freight and two by the "labor train." Two of them were killed outright and
